

Sourland Conservancy presents 2017 Train Station Series

Hopewell Train Station, 7:00 pm – 8:30 pm

Suggested donation $5.00 at the door – Advance registration is required.

Sign up for our eNewsletter at www.sourland.org

Wednesday, October 11, Citizen Science in the Sourlands – Juanita Hummel of Washington Crossing Audubon Society will share her experiences collecting data in the depths of the Sourlands as a citizen scientist participant in the Forest Health (Raritan/Piedmont) survey. She will explain why the data gathered by citizen scientists is vitally important, and how you can help by becoming a citizen scientist yourself. Click this link to register http://tiny.cc/citizen_science

Wednesday, October 18, Hidden Landscapes of the Sourlands - Did you ever wonder who built those old stone walls and foundations in the forest? Did you know there are old cemeteries, abandoned quarries, ceramic kilns, grist mills and even forgotten villages in our midst? Sourland secrets will be revealed through modern technology and good old-fashioned research. Presented by Ian Burrow, archaeologist. Click this link to register http://tiny.cc/hidden_landscapes

Wednesday, October 25, Ghosts in the Sourlands - Bring your stories - Jim Davidson, local East Amwell historian has lived in 16 old houses, 4 of which have been haunted. Come and hear his stories and bring your own to share. We will talk about what the different types of ghosts, why are they around and, if need be, how to get rid of them. Click this link to register http://tiny.cc/Ghost_Stories

Thursday, November 2, Bird Banding – The Featherbed Lane Bird Banding Station (FLBBS) is a research and monitoring project initiated by biologist Hannah Suthers in 1977. This is the longest-running private bird banding stations in the United States! Learn more about the birds, research and results at this Important Bird Area. Click this link to register http://tiny.cc/bird_banding

Wednesday, November 8, In the Rocks: Echoes of Bygone Time in the Sourlands - Did John Hart really hide in a Sourland cave? Was the 1778 Battle of Monmouth planned on the mountain? Where was Honey Hollow? Where was the Malayelick Indian Trail? Join David Blackwell, Hopewell Township local historian and native, when he narrates a collection of legends and insights into the history of the Sourland Range from the Province Line to the Delaware. Click this link to register <http://tiny.cc/InTheRocks>

Thursday, November 16, African-American History – Learn about African-American history in the region from the late 17th century through today. This fascinating presentation will include a display of artifacts and traditional African-American music from the Sourlands. Presented by Beverly Mills, Elaine Buck and John Buck, President,

Stoutsburg Sourland African American Museum. Hopewell Presbyterian Church, 80 W Broad St, Hopewell, NJ 08525 Click this link to register <http://tiny.cc/AfricanAmericanHistory>

Thursday, November 30, Turtle Talk - New Jersey is home to 11 species of turtles, but how much do we really know about them? Turtle Talk will discuss how turtles evolved, their behaviors and senses, and what threats they face today. Harriet Forrester, founder of Turtle Rescue of New Jersey will cover all this and more, including busting some common myths about these marvelous shelled creatures. Click this link to register <http://tiny.cc/TurtleTalk>

www.sourland.org

87 Princeton Avenue, Suite 1A, Hopewell, NJ 08525

609-309-5155